

Piles of snow accumulated around the town of Bancroft and the area when almost a foot of snow fell over the Thanksgiving weekend.

A large group of community members braved the cold and participated in the Turkey Trot on Thanksgiving morning. The Trot started at 8:00 a.m. and runners ran the 5K route on the streets of Armstrong. More than $700 was raised for the local food pantry. Organizers say they hope to make this a new tradition!

The light poles in Bancroft are now decorated with new snowflakes that light up the streets at night for the holiday season.

Treasurer Smith Encourages Holiday Contributions to IABLE Accounts

This holiday season, State Treasurer Roby Smith is inviting family and friends of IABLE account owners to give the gift of financial freedom to an individual in their life. IABLE, Iowa's Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) plan, helps people with disabilities, and their support system save for qualified expenses while protecting essential benefits.

"As the holiday season approaches, many of us are thinking about how to give meaningful gifts," said Treasurer Smith. "Contributing to an IABLE account is a powerful way to support independence for people who have a disability. In addition, it's a gift that can make a lasting difference well beyond the holiday season."

Giving to an IABLE account enables family and friends to assist and actively participate in enhancing the quality of life for people with disabilities. Additionally, any Iowa taxpayer can deduct up to $5,800 in contributions to an IABLE account from their state income taxes for 2025.

Connect with the Treasurer on Facebook, Instagram and X, to stay informed of updates and news.

More about IABLE: IABLE, administered by State Treasurer Roby Smith, provides eligible people with disabilities and their support systems a way to save money while maintaining crucial benefits for federally means-tested programs such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Medicaid. Funds in IABLE accounts can be used to cover qualified disability expenses like assistive technology, support services, medical bills and much more. If you or a loved one could benefit from an IABLE account visit IABLE.gov.

For more details about IABLE, review the Plan Disclosure Booklet.

The following results are not final until the 2nd tier canvass. The results you see below are only Kossuth County results. This is because abstracts are needed from other Counties in order for Kossuth County to complete our results. These abstracts can't be received until all counties complete their 1st tier canvass.

This is due to the City and School election being combined this year and also the reason for the 2nd tier canvass. These results will also appear in the 2nd tier canvass and at that time we will have an * by the person(s) duly elected for that office.

WRITERS AND WRITING By MICHAEL TIDEMANN

The Thief of Words offers gritty realism

The Thief of Words
Anthony Bukoski

If you like good stories you can sink your teeth into and chew on for a while, The Thief of Words is for you.

Anthony Bukoski, grandson of Polish immigrants, Marine Corps Vietnam veteran and former University of Wisconsin-Superior professor, offers a cavalcade of real-life characters in this stunning collection. Polish displaced persons, faithful Catholics and blue-collar workers dot Bukoski's landscape that ranges from Superior, Wis., flour mills and seedy lakefront bars to the steaming fields of Louisiana.

Bukoski's depiction of waterfront bars is hauntingly reminiscent of that of East LA by a writer with a very similar last name, Charles Bukowski.

Bukoski also evokes fatherly images similar to Theodore Roethke's "My Papa's Walz" in his title story, "The Thief of Words".

"If the neighborhood was awake, it would have wondered that something so precious could happen in the East End of Superior, Wisconsin, a father rescuing his son after a terrible thunderstorm. I wanted to be close to him to touch his work shirt, anything now that I realized how important he was for working like this, for taking care of us. This is the Polish way."

That love continues far past life on Earth. "... and each time he's here, each time I miss him, Walter Wozniak of the Polish Club, Walter Wozniak of the Saint Adalbert's Holy Name Society, Wozniak the laborer, I say over and over in two languages, "Father ... Father."

In the story "Chokecherries", the narrator finds similarities and unity between Polish refugees and his Native father who was displaced from the reservation. "Forget Me Not", set in blue-collar Superior, tells how a man who goes to fight in Vietnam returns to find his girlfriend had married another man. One can only wonder if Bukoski had a similar experience.

Bukoski draws realistic characters into a masterful narrative that should leave anyone spellbound. Anyone who enjoys a good story would love this book. Bukoski's biography is indeed impressive, with eight short story collections, including Time between Trains, a Booklist Editor's Choice as one of the best books of fiction for American libraries, and The Blondes of Wisconsin, winner of the Edna Ferber Fiction Award. He is also a member of the National Book Critics Circle and past fellow of the Christopher Isherwood Foundation.
