One evening that week as R.G. Harlow stepped out of his house to close his binds, he saw the form of a man stretched out on his cellar door, and the man saw him just about the same time and attempted to spring to his feet.

Harlow caught him by the throat and gave him a good squeeze before he discovered that he had one of the south side's big boys in his grasp.

The lad said he was playing and had hidden there.

It was extremely lucky for him that Harlow did not have a club in his hand.

Five Cub Scouts Cross Over To BSA

On March 30, five Cub Scouts from Pack 97 crossed over into Scouts BSA.

The ceremony was held with fellow Scouts, family, and friends in attendance.

Five Cub Scouts completed the required adventures along with two electives in order to earn their Arrow of Light Rank: Cael Berndt, Wyatt Sieh, Jake Goettsch, Braelyn Yochum, and Leo Ringen.

Scouts received a personalized arrow that symbolized their achievements as a Cub Scout.

With this rank advancement the Scouts earned the opportunity to continue their journey with scouting by crossing over into the Troop.

Boys and girls are eligible to be involved in Scouts BSA.

Leaders are actively trying to start a Girls Troop for the AHSTW district.

If interested in joining Scouts, please contact Becky Mahoney at 402-514-3039 or Becky.Mahoney@scouting.org.

Assistant Sr. Patrol Leader, Morgan Sieh, places the Scout bolo around Cael Berndt as a welcome to Troop 97.

dilapidated site, making it a marketable location for new business development in support of our ongoing downtown revitalization efforts."

The City of Neola used its forgivable loan to make several improvements to the Hall Sports Complex.

Tile was installed to improve drainage along the south side of the park, and erosion control measures were added along the creek next to the ball fields, city officials said.

The city also upgraded the baseball field, doubled the size of the parking lot and repaired the trail around the complex, which was extended to half a mile.

"The impact on the community has been significant," Mayor Karla Pogge said. "The park is now frequently visited by walkers, children enjoying the playground and individuals using the soccer and ball fields.

The newly landscaped walking path around the park with added shrubs, grasses and flowers has enhanced the area's beauty and safety. The park is now a more pleasant and secure place for the community to gather."

The City of Oakland used its loan to assemble an amphitheater in Chautauqua Park with a covered platform, concrete base and electrical service, according to City Administrator Marissa Lockwood.

The facility will be used for live performances and community events, she said.

"We are excited to be able to

The new amphitheater in Chautauqua Park in Oakland.

provide this entertainment and gathering space for our community to come together for events in Chautauqua Park," Lockwood said. "We are grateful to Pottawattamie County and the board of supervisors for providing this forgivable loan to complete a 'want' that has been on our list for quite a few years."
