Cherokee City Council green lights repairs on West Bluff Street

Construction anticipated to begin next spring

BY MADELINE COMBS

West Bluff Street in Cherokee will soon receive much needed upgrades following project approval by the Cherokee City Council last Tuesday.

The council gave the greenlight to the nearly $700,000 project last Tuesday after lengthy back and forth on the logistics of the project — much of which concerned access to the school, pool and homes via W. Bluff Street.

Kyle Basten, an engineer with Beck Engineering in Cherokee, explained to the council that the project would likely involve a complete overhaul of the road to replace the worn concrete between Ninth Street and the T-intersection near the community center.

"Last time I was here, the direction was to proceed with removing and replacing that whole stretch," he said at last week's meeting.

"That will allow us to get the grading we need, level we need and it'll be a better long-term product instead of the plan we had discussed with the city doing some patching mainly around the pool."

City Administrator Theresa Pudenz elaborated on the decision, saying that the city was looking for a long-term solution to repairing the road.

"I think at the end of the story, our discussion was to try and move forward because we wanted a better product, a longer longevity for the road than just kind of mishappily patching it in various spots that didn't necessarily make sense when we were going along," she said. "We were replacing this part but we were leaving this side and I'm like 'OK, that doesn't really make sense.'"

The project will likely consist of two phases, the first of which would be completed during the school year and hopefully finished by the summer when the community pool opens. The second phase will focus on replacing portions of concrete along W Bluff Street between the T-intersection near the community center and the railroad tracks

Basten emphasized that the concrete around the railroad tracks will not be touched.

While the estimated project cost sits just under $700,000, the city is hoping to receive generous grant funding to cover 80% of the project equaling about $500,000. The other 20% would be paid by the city.

Pudenz said that, without the grant, the city may have to pay an additional $300,000 out of pocket for the project.

Funding for the project has already been factored in to Cherokee's FY26/27 budget

The project is currently scheduled to begin as early as next spring pending final approval by the Iowa Department of Transportation, but could change according to Basten. His hope is that the DOT will assist with the project to avoid potential traffic issues at the pool and the school during the duration

KIWANIS KORNER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11

Ok, ok, ok, here's the deal. For the past 5 weeks this old cowboy has had some personal issues concerning the "old ticker" as well as some major changes in lifestyle. Nuf said.

During my hiatus we had speakers from 54 different states and 9 continents. I think.

Sometimes I exaggerate a bit, but you probably missed some of the greatest speakers on the planet, not to mention all the fun and excitement.

Today Amy had two different egg dishes, a rhubarb desert, and home made ice cream. Now that is way beyond expectation. Did you have homemade ice cream for breakfast? Would bet not. . Ha, ha.

Thanks Amy, it was awesome.

Our speaker for the day updated us on the progress being made my the Cherokee County Conservation Commission. You should have been there to hear about all the great things they do. Sure would like to tell you more, but you know the rules.

During our business meeting we gave a special thank you to Grey for all the work he does to organize the Kiwanis Car Show. He spends many hours behind the scene working to make the show a tremendous success.

We Kiwanians sure do appreciate all the sponsors who make the show possible. Without your support there would be no car show, so once again "THANK YOU"

Speaking of the Car Show and Family Day, I think we made about a million dollars. Ok maybe not that much, but close, I think. Anyway now we have some money in the kitty to help kids in the area, and make Aurelia even a more attractive place to call home.

Thank you everyone for your support. You are the best.

In other business that is none of your business, but will tell you any, we are having our annual fall banquet on Thursday November 6. This is a semi formal event that is highlighted by a gourmet meal, a short business meeting, and special entertainment. A truly gala affair.

This is a dinner for Kiwanis members only, but if you want to come just let me know and we can sign you up as an official blue shirt. Now wouldn't that be special.

We had other business items that are none of your business, so there. Make our business your business. Become a Kiwanian. Have a great week.

Hugs.
