This week's Tama County Supervisors Meeting

MICHAEL D. DAVIS
CORRESPONDENT

The snow had melted away, taking with it the last remnants of a lingering winter; the seasons were changing, the sun was shining, and it was again

Monday, time for the Tama County Supervisors meeting.

If you were going to miss any Supervisors meeting, this was the one to miss, as very little happened. The majority of the time was taken up by public comment and discussion of various topics, including the future of public and home health.

The roads report made up the meat of this meeting. It was reported that they worked on a bridge east of Clutier on E36 and will look at a low water crossing on the north side of Clutier.

Supervisor David Turner updated everyone on what he's been working on, and that was about it for the meeting. Claims totaling $86,156.94 were approved.

Bracket Busted?

Try the Great Iowa Treasure Hunt instead

TAMA-TOLEDO
NEWS CHRONICLE

DES MOINES — March is known for the buzzer-beater, the Cinderella story and more likely than not, a busted bracket. In fact, the odds of a person having a perfect bracket are one in 9.2 quintillion according to the NCAA, but what are the odds of someone having something in the Great Iowa Treasure Hunt? Much better, actually. In fact, one in seven Iowans has something to find at GreatIowaTreasureHunt.gov.

"It might take you a few minutes or a few hours to work towards that perfect bracket," said State Treasurer

Roby Smith. "Searching your name in Great Iowa Treasure Hunt only takes a minute or two, and you might find funds or a safe deposit box you forgot you had. Everyone loves a good underdog story, so visit GreatIowaTreasureHunt.gov before tipoff and find something worth looking for."

Tama County has approximately $2,025,251 in safekeeping right now. Grab the ball and get a slam dunk at GreatIowaTreasureHunt.gov.

TAMA-GRUNDY PUBLISHING

AMES — Iowa State University Extension and

Outreach Week is April 6-11. With county extension offices, specialists and staff located in all 99 counties, ISU Extension and Outreach connects Iowans throughout the state with education and resources. This celebration thanks Iowans for their support.

"ISU Extension and Outreach Week is one way we show our appreciation for the people who participate in our educational programs, as well as the many volunteers, community leaders, organizations, agencies and other partners who support our work in Tama County," said Cheryl Bruene, county executive director.

ISU Extension and Outreach is part of the federal Cooperative Extension Service — a network of more than 100 land-grant institutions including Iowa State University and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, serving communities and counties across the United States. Every county in Iowa has an elected extension council that decides how to support ISU Extension and Outreach educational programs at the county level.

The Tama County Extension Council members are Cathy Gethmann, Patrick Henry, Deb Kupka, Don Linnenbrink, Judy Morrison, Clint Murty, Jackie Skala, Sandy Supianoski, and Tom L. Upah.

"In Tama County, ISU Extension and Outreach is here with you because learning happens where you are. You can find educational resources online and in your county — for you, your family, community, business or farm," Bruene said.

Whether you are needing education for your job, wanting answers to yard and garden questions, looking for a summer day camp for school-age children, or needing food and nutrition information; ISU extension and Outreach can help provide answers.

Keep informed about ISU Extension and Outreach events by following the local Facebook page, visiting the county website at www.extension.iastate.edu/tama, or contacting the ISU Extension and Outreach Tama County office at 641-484-2703.
