N-P shooters have had plenty of success in '26

TRAPSHOOTING: FROM 9

Barlow isn't far behind that group with a 299 and he wants to get his "get-back" – as he puts it this year – as a technicality prevented CP/NP/RRMR from reeling in a top medal at state a year ago in the handicap division. Long story short, one of the squads on Oleson's team used a gauge of shotgun shell that was not permitted at state – which will take place next week in Cedar Falls – and were disqualified from placing.

"We've had some pretty good success. We had to change it around there at the beginning of the season," said Brase about this year's success for his Husky contingent, which is seven shooters strong in 2026.

Brase shot his way to a mark of 292 in his E-League score. N-P was 14th overall in the E-League team standings with a 1,450. That competition ended on Saturday for spring sports shooting.

"I want to work harder at it. I think we could maybe win it," said Brase about N-P's chances at state.

Barlow, who pulled double-duty this spring as he's a standout golfer for Phil Franzen's Husky boys golf team, talked about the state meet. In a nutshell, it's the biggest meet of the year with a lot of potential distractions, as a horde of shooters and fans converge on Black Hawk County for the week-long event.

"There's a lot more pressure on that than any other meet," said Barlow. "You try not to think about it, but you always think about it. You don't get that out of your head."

The Iowa Department of Natural Resources (DNR) acts as the official advisor for youth clay target spots in Iowa and hosts the state meet along with the Cedar Falls Gun Club.

Other top-notch marksmen for N-P this year are sophomores Maverick Sinnwell (283 E-League score), Tate Demro (282) and Corbin Johnson (277). Cade Wallin and Quentin Hector are new to the N-P team this year.
