Wild Game Supper at Grimes Farm Feb. 11

By GARRY BRANDENBURG
SPECIAL TO THE T-R

The local chapter of the Izaak Walton League hosts a Wild Game Supper every year. Members and guests bring a cooked pot-luck selection of wild foods that may include all kinds of fish, and/or meats from elk, deer, moose, bear, squirrel, rabbit, ducks or geese and other legally taken wild game animals. This popular event is open to all Ikes members, their guests and any interested public who want to learn more about the Ikes and their programs.

The wild game supper will begin at about 5:45 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 11 at the Nature Center at the Grimes Farm. Following the supper, at about 7 p.m., a special program will be presented by Tyler Renze, the owner/operator of Renze Habitat Solutions LLC, a wildlife habitat management company specializing in the restoration and enhancement of ecosystems to support biodiversity and sustainable land use practices.

Tyler's weekday job is that of a Natural Resource Manager for the Marshall County Conservation Board. Renze has a Bachelor's degree in Conservation Management from Upper Iowa University, Class of 2013. Tyler brings a well-rounded academic background and years of hands-on experience in conservation work. His expertise includes habitat restoration, wildlife management and land stewardship. He has knowledge and skills to apply to farm pond vegetation control. He also is current regarding forest and grassland/prairie management problems and solutions.

All who attend the Wild Game Supper will come away informed of what works and why when it comes to natural resource land care and management. This event is free, but any free will offerings will be accepted. Come see and learn for yourself at the Grimes Farm on Wednesday evening, Feb. 11.
